FIELD DAY FOR FOR BEEKEEPERS

Mr. W. H. Scott, district agriculturist, of Sedgewick, has completed the plans for holding a field day for beekeepers, or anyone interested in agriculture. Mr. S. O. Hillard, provincial apiarist will be on hand to demonstrate the handling of bees and answer any questions that may be of interest to any one contemplating the keeping of more bees. The rapid strides being made in sowing seed clover in all parts of Central Alberta means that it will only be a matter of a short time till the farmers in the district over which Mr. Scott is interested, will be raising all of the best honey they could wish for, for their own farms. This has happened in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and other parts of Alberta, where sweet clover has been established. Arrangements have been made to hold the meeting in one of H. W. Love's apiaries just west of Irma, where a number of colonies of bees will be available for demonstration. In this apiary several different kinds of hives have been tried, such as top entrance, Kootenay and others that have been advocated by different beekeepers. Mr. Hillard, will be on hand at 1 p.m. on Wednesday afternoon, June 4th, so come early so that he can work with the bees during the best time of the day for handling them. The apiary is located south of the railway track about a quarter of a mile west of Irma. If enough interest is shown in this field day Mr. Scott intends to try to have Mr. Hillard hold another meeting after the season is further advanced when the bees will be bringing in the honey from the sweet clover.

NORMAN V. KING PASSED BEYOND

Wednesday night after a long illness Mr. Norman Victor King, of Fabian passed away in one of the Edmonton hospitals after a long illness. Norman as he was known to all of the old timers in the Irma district had been troubled with diabetes for some years but had been able to look after his extensive farming operations and other activities, till about three months when he was taken down with an attack of erysipelas which necessitated taking him to Edmonton for treatment. The latter trouble had been cured but other complications developed resulting in his death Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. His wife had been with him almost constantly for nearly three weeks. The deceased with his parents came to Irma, from Ontario, twenty years ago when they settled in the Roseberry district north east of Irma. In 1915 he was married to Miss Prudence Smith when they settled on their own farm north of Fabian. This homestead has been gradually added till his present farm now consists of two sections. The deceased was in his 39th year and always took a keen interest in School, Church and Municipal matters. At the last municipal election he was elected councillor for the Municipality of Battle River, from his division, but on account of his illness has been unable to act. Besides his sorrowing wife he leaves five children, Ralph age 13, Esther age 11, Ralph age 9, Harold age 8 and Jack age 2, his parents Mr. and Mrs. W. H. King of Irma, two brothers Cecil of Regina, Sask., and Lance B. of Irma. The funeral is being held Friday afternoon from Irma United Church.

HOME CANNING MADE EASY

BY NEW FEE BOOK

Summer Foods in Winter Help Preserve Health and Provide Ready Cooked Meals.

Just prior to the war some remarkable discoveries were made in regard to the canning of food products, discoveries that have greatly enlarged the scope of food preservation and made it possible to put up for future use almost every kind of fruit, vegetable and meat.

These developments are described in a new booklet entitled "Home Canning", just issued by the Bank of Montreal, and written especially to help the housewives on farms in dealing with their food problems in the modern scientific way. With this booklet as her guide, the farm housewife is able to provide just such a wide range of healthful foods in winter as in summer. Furthermore, when busy days arrive, or when unexpected company drops in, she is no longer flustered by the problem of meals - she has good, appetizing foods right at hand in plenty, only waiting to be warmed up and served. Here are some of the things that one can now easily preserve in all their original freshness, and with the health-giving vitamins retained: Tomatoes, string beans, peas, corn, greens, asparagus, carrots, beets, rhubarb, berries, cherries, plums, peaches, pears, chicken, beef, pork, soup and fish.

Of course to preserve these foods properly, you have got to know how. The booklet describes how. It deals with cold packs and hot packs, glass jars and tin containers, and with best methods of processing, whether in the ordinary steam boiler or in that wonderful little invention, the steam pressure cooker, which latter, by the way, can be used to great advantage in ordinary cooking.

Lots of people wonder why they need headache cures and tonics during the winter and in spring. Often it is due to the monotony of winter diet - the lack of those healthful qualities which fresh fruit and vegetables contain. This booklet shows how to get summer food all the year round, to the great advantage of the health and the pocket book. Food that would otherwise be wasted can be saved and enjoyed at any time; chickens, pigs and calves that would otherwise be eating their heads off can be killed when they are ready, stored in glass jars or cans, and eaten when required, with no loss of flavor or other qualities.

In fact, there is nothing relating to the subject of canning which is not dealt with in the booklet in a way which makes canning easy, to all. Copies of the booklet may be obtained free from the local branch of the Bank of Montreal.

SPRING CLEANING

It is not too early to send in household articles such as curtains, drapes, rugs, table covers, dresser scarves, bed spreads, elderdowns, etc. for dry cleaning.

It is also well to consider the dry cleaning of articles which are to be put away until next winter.

It is a fact that moths will not readily attack articles that have been scientifically dry cleaned.

Can "Good" Be Accomplished By "Force"?

Through the ages as man has struggled upward from his cave-dwelling to his present condition of semi-civilization, for it requires only a hurried glance through the columns of any daily paper any day to prove that man is not yet fully civilized,—he has carried with him the brute instinct to try and accomplish things by force rather than by persuasion; instead of trying to win support to his views and convictions, he has tried to force it. The more civilized, the better educated man becomes, the more does he rely upon appeals to reason instead of having resort to force. None the less the state of the nations today, and our tendency to resort to the power of legislation and law to enforce opinions upon others, reveals how largely we still depend on force to govern our everyday affairs.

The question therefore naturally arises: How any definite lasting good ever come to humanity through the coercive action of force? Could one find a single, unquestionable instance in the whole range of human history where compulsion has been the direct and sole agency in changing the mental attitude, the belief, the convictions or the conscience-sense of any one normal intelligence? Without reserve one may venture to say "No" to both questions.

There is profound truth in Butler's couplet: "He that compels against his will is of his own opinion still." One may be persuaded to change one's mind, to take a different viewpoint, to espouse another belief, to modify or discard a long-held conviction, to give conscience a new direction, and through it all to act differently,—the action being either good or bad according to the prevailing general opinion; but it is sincerely to be doubted that force, no matter what its form or its avowed purpose, ever has or ever will bring about the only thing—a change of mind and heart—that is necessary to produce a new line of action. Without the voluntary conversion of the individual mind and heart, that is, of thought and conscience, there can be no reasonable expectancy of bringing about, definitely, permanently and dominantly, a new condition—social, economic, political, ethical, or moral. All our social reforms, our political leaders, our legislators, would do well to ponder this thought and pay closer heed to the lessons of experience and history.

If we would study impartially the action of unleased force directed with the ostensible purpose of producing eventual good, we may turn our eyes toward Russia today. True, the conflicting reports coming out of the country advise us to draw conclusions with a certain reserve; yet there is enough of what appears to be authentic to warrant the present view that the Soviet Government of Russia is using compulsion in the fullest meaning of the term, to impose its minority, compactly organized will upon the unorganized great majority of that vast country.

The Communists may tell us, as well as some three-fourths of the people of Russia, that persuasion, through "propaganda," is their chief agency for the building of a "New Russia," but it is propaganda backed by armed force, by secret police, by studied cruelty, and by unrelenting terrorism. Putting the most charitable construction upon the Soviet's methods for the combating of the "New Russia," they are trying to do what they consider to be good practically altogether by the exercise of force. A marvelously organized minority seeks to compel a helplessly disorganized majority to accept without question its views as to what is best for the political, social, economic and moral well-being of the whole.

And all history tells us that this cannot be done. Reform by force lasts just so long as the force which brought it about is strong enough to maintain it. Force not only invites opposition, but generates it. And soon or late, the opposing force becomes the more powerful, and we have another clash of forces, more disturbance and confusion, reaction, or, perhaps, some more compulsory "reformation." But we cannot say confidently that out of it all has come a single, definite step of progress. Force is the antithesis of co-operation, and without the voluntary co-operation of all the interests involved there can be no genuine progress.

What is true of Russia just now, would be equally true of any other country, or state, or community. No matter how desirable the proposed or initiated reform may be, force, if applied to it, eventually will defeat it. Without the voluntary and earnest co-operation of a pronounced majority of all concerned even unquestioned good is not likely to be achieved. And surely no intelligent person would be content with "forced good."

Canada Has Barred Importation Of Parrots

First Outbreak Of Parrot Fever Is Reported From British Columbia

Canada will declare immediately an absolute embargo on the importation and transportation of all birds of the parrot species as a result of representations from the British Columbia Department of Health, which is now engaged in systematic efforts to stamp out parrot fever.

Meanwhile, Dr. H. E. Young, provincial health officer, and his department, are engaged in a systematic campaign to confine the outbreak of parrot fever to a few cases around Vancouver.

They have been in telegraphic communication with United States authorities to secure the latest possible information on the subject.

"This is the first outbreak of this disease, so far as we know in the history of Canada," Dr. Young said.

The health department here has records of all parrots brought to Canada from the Orient in recent months, and is endeavoring to ascertain their present whereabouts so that they may be examined."

NEW APPOINTMENT

R. G. McNEILLIE

Prominent among the spring promotions of Canadian Pacific Railway officials was the appointment of R. G. McNeillie, as assistant passenger traffic manager of eastern lines, with headquarters at Montreal. Mr. McNeillie, who was general passenger agent at Winnipeg, for eight years, left at the end of April for the east, his new appointment becoming effective May 1.

Mr. McNeillie entered the service of the Canadian Pacific Railway in 1901, as a stenographer in the general passenger department, at Winnipeg, becoming chief clerk in 1905. In that year he became acting district passenger agent at Nelson, B.C., and district passenger agent at Calgary, in 1910. He was promoted in 1913 to the position of assistant general passenger agent, western lines, with headquarters at Winnipeg, becoming general passenger agent in 1922.

Before his departure for Montreal, Mr. McNeillie was remembered by the members of the passenger department from the head of the lakes to Field, B.C., and at Minneapolis with a handsome liquor set, with cut glass decanters and glasses, and a wardrobe suit case, the presentation made by C. E. McPherson, who is now acting in an advisory capacity to the passenger department.

WAS RUN DOWN AND VERY WEAK

Too Little Blood the Trouble

Mrs. Jas. A. Haughn, Bridgewater, N.S., writes: "I was badly run down and very weak. So much so I could scarcely do my housework. My nerves were affected; my indigestion poor; I had continued headaches and could not get a restful night's sleep. Different remedies failed to be of benefit and I was growing discouraged. One day, however, I saw an advertisement of a case similar to mine which had been relieved by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. So I decided to try them. A few weeks' use of the Pills fully restored my health and now my household duties are a pleasure instead of a torture."

Mrs. Haughn's whole trouble was that she had too little blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were of aid to her because they renewed and purified her blood and that good blood promoted good health, for where good blood abounds disease cannot exist.

You can get these Pills from any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Dates From Middle Ages

The expression, "The weakest goes to the wall," dates from the Middle Ages. In those days churches lacked pews, and the congregation stood on the rush-strewn floor of the nave throughout the service. Along the wall ran a low stone seat, which was used by the aged and infirm. The seats which gave rise to the expression may still be seen in some churches.

Pleased With Tour

British Headquarters Enthusiastic Over Reception Accorded Them In Canada

The party of English headmasters, who have been touring Canada, returned to Toronto enthusiastic over the reception tendered them throughout the country and confident that the tour would result in the right kind of English boy being sent to Canada. Dr. Cyril Norwood, chairman of the party, said that after studying Canadian educational methods, they would advise "quality immigration."

"We shall not advise our boys to come to Canada, unprepared, without money, expecting to find posts waiting for them," said Dr. Norwood. "We shall tell them there are excellent universities, and that after leaving them they must make opportunities for themselves." Dr. Norwood believes that members of the Nordic strain are easily assimilated into the country, but that the flow from central Europe should be stopped.

Manitoba Airman Fined Ten Dollars For Chasing Them

For disturbing the peace of Manitoba wild geese by chasing them in an airplane, Philip Osler was fined $10 and costs by Magistrate F. M. Nolan in provincial police court. Game Warden Durand told the court that Osler had worried thousands of the birds, during the close season, when, in his plane, he pursued them between Rosser and Meadows.

He was told to advise his aviator friends to cut out the sport.

MacDonald's Message To McGill Turns To Scriptures For Advice To University Students

Premier Ramsay MacDonald draws inspiration from the Scriptures when asked to pen a message to McGill students through the medium of the McGill Annual, which is dedicated to him.

"I write this looking over the rural grace of Chequamegon Park, but with McGill in my mind," Premier MacDonald states in his message. "You ask me for a few words more for the students. What of these? 'Whatever thy hand findeth to do, do it with all thy might.'"

Over Thirty Million Dollars Invested In Industries Using Clay From Canada's Deposits

Canada is fortunate in possessing resources in many types of clay employed in the manufacturing industries. In a list of 35 lines of manufacture in the Dominion, clay of one type or another appears among the supplies for 24 of them. It is used in large amounts in the making of such materials as cement, paper, and textiles. It is even used as a purifier of land and oils. Its greatest use, however, is in the so-called clay-working industries in which over a million and a half tons of various types of clay enter into the composition of the products each year. These industries represent an invested capital of over $30,000,000 and employ almost 5,000 men.

These types of clay differ greatly in physical properties such as color in the natural and burned state, plasticity, strength when dry and burned, shrinkage, vitrification range and refractoriness. The clay used in the clay-working industries are classified according to the purposes for which they are adapted. For example, there are pottery clays, including china clay or kaolin and ball clay used in the compounding of porcelain; stoneware clay for making vitrified ware, and earthenware clay for making the more porous earthenware; refractory clays capable of withstanding very high temperatures used for the manufacture of firebricks; sewer pipe clays which produce a dense impervious body capable of taking a salt glaze for the making of sewer pipes and similar products; and brick and tile clays and shales for the manufacture of structural brick and tile and farm drain tile.

The pottery clay cannot be said to be plentiful so far as distribution is concerned but there are a number of deposits of importance, particularly of china clay in Quebec and British Columbia; of ball clay in Saskatchewan; and of stoneware and earthenware clays in Nova Scotia, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Fireclays are graded according to their refractoriness or the temperature which they can withstand in service, ranging from low heat duty. The high heat duty or high grade fireclays are of rather rare occurrence in Canada but the lower grades are of broader distribution. With the exception of Prince Edward Island and Manitoba, all the provinces of Canada are known to possess deposits of fireclay though some of the deposits are too remote from the markets to be of immediate value.

In the manufacture of building brick and structural and drain tile, common surface clays and shales are used and, to a lesser extent, low grade fireclays. Canada has immense resources of such clays and shales suitable for making good quality brick of a wide range of texture and color, distributed through the nine provinces, and there is ample evidence that good use is made of them. Close observation of conditions in Canada and the United States are struck by the greater proportion of brick structures, especially dwellings, in Canada.

In the ceramics laboratories of the department of mines which were established for the testing of clays and as an aid to the clay-working industries, a staff of engineers and assistants is engaged on various investigations bearing upon the problems of manufacture. Subjects of general interest to groups of ceramic manufacturers are investigated in detail, and technical advice and assistance in minor problems are freely given to individual manufacturers. The objects constantly being worked for are the improving and cheapening of the processes of manufacture and the aiding of the industry to produce better and wider ranges of wares.

The value of these services has recently been demonstrated through the successful outcome of an investigation of the drying of brick made from a certain type of clay very common in the prairie provinces. Bricks made from this clay are very difficult to dry without cracking even when the utmost care is exercised. A process was worked out and placed in operation in a plant with the result that the drying time was reduced to less than half, the drying loss practically eliminated and the finished bricks greatly improved in quality. At this one plant a saving of many thousand dollars was effected. The process which is applicable to many plants has since been adopted by several.

CHIC LINES

All Tingey models are created in Paris and sketched by her there. The patterns are made and adapted for American women in New York by American patternmakers.

A frock of exceptional smartness is this, yet one that is not at all difficult to carry out. The little bolero jacket is separate from the main dress. The latter is adjusted by shoulder straps.

Note how effectively the skirt section takes the curved line of the bolero, the greatest fullness of the shaped skirt fitting into a point as shown.

Mid blue crepe-like woolen made the original of this chic model. Lightweight tweeds, jerseys, reps, and material of a similar type are all suitable.

The belt can be of self tissue or leather, as preferred.

Edges can be finished with several lines of stitching, bias bindings, or braid.

Good colors are most blues, greens, reds, beige, and tiny checks or spot effects.

This pattern may be obtained in sizes 16 to 20, and 34 to 40. It is ready for immediate delivery. It is hand cut.

Will Boost Grain Show

Co-Operation Of British National Farmers' Union Is Promised

Stressing the fact that residents of the Old Country were "out for cheap food" and promising co-operation of the National Farmers' Union in giving publicity to the World Grain Exhibition and Conference to be held in 1932, Warner Baxter, Birmingham, England, past president of the Union, addressed a meeting of the Regina Board of Trade held in the Hotel Saskatchewan under the auspices of the agricultural division of the Board. Mr. Baxter stated co-operation of the National Farmers' Union of Great Britain in boosting the World Grain Exhibition and Conference to be held in Regina, in 1932, would be forthcoming, and said that, through the 130,000 members of the union, the publicity through the Old Country would reach almost every possible exhibitor.

If assurance was given that exhibits sent over to Canada for the exhibition in Regina would be given a good display, he said that there was no reason why a large number of exhibits should not be shown at the grain exhibition.

Quality Is Assured

People Can Depend On Government Inspected Fruit and Vegetables

The buyer of food products more than anyone else today must know that he is getting the quality he buys. The shipping point inspection service of the Fruit Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture has established the confidence of the "trade," from producer to consumer, in the reliability of the government certificate. From a modest 2,889 carloads inspected five years ago, the federal inspection service last year inspected 25,740 carloads of fruit and vegetables, an increase over the preceding year of 9,281 cars. More than that, the inspection service, having created confidence in quality and developed uniformity, has made inspected fruits and vegetables really popular on the larger markets, and in the export market premium prices have been obtained. The federal inspection service is a neutral determination of quality standard between buyer and seller established by certificate.

Must Grow More For Less

Reducing Production Costs Is Present Problem For Farmer

"Lower costs are necessary in farm production in Canada" is the view expressed by E. S. Hopkins, Field Husbandman of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. "In an era of low prices the only avenue of escape to the farmer is for him to strive to reduce his production costs still farther." Among the ways in which these costs can be lowered are the production of heavier yields per acre through better farming practices, the use of more labor-saving machinery. In these days of growing competition in both the domestic and export market, the farmer who would succeed must grow more for less, and at the same time produce a quality which will sell better in the market than the competing product.

First Class Equipment Pays

Enables Farmer To Increase Production At Lower Cost

The three important factors in the cost of producing crops are land, labor and capital, and the human labor factor is the only one which is higher today than it was fifteen years ago, a statement prepared by officials of the Dominion Department of Agriculture shows. Field husbandmen therefore, stress the importance of making the hired man's wages count by supplying him with first class equipment so that wherever possible he may be able to do literally two days' work in one. This is where modern farm machinery comes in. Eastern Canada crops take 20 hours labor per acre to harvest; Western Canada crops harvested with horse-drawn outfits take 11 hours labor per acre, and harvested with the use of the new combine-harvester the labor cost is only 2.5 hours per acre.

Princess Mary's Second Son In Line To Inherit Property

Princess Mary's second son, the Hon. Gerald David Lascelles, who is now five years old, may become the owner of sugar plantations and other property in Barbados, West Indies, under the will of his grandfather, the late Earl of Harewood, of Harewood House, Leeds. The earl left unvested property of the gross value of $380,000, with net personality $282,288. He left the plantations on trust for his son, the Hon. Edward Cecil Lascelles, and heirs in tail male, whom failing, to Princess Mary's son and his heirs in tail. Mr. Edward Lascelles is married, but has no children.

Western Farmers Living Up To Their Reputation For Optimism and Work

Insects Have Their Uses

Harmful In Some Ways, Are Protection In Others

Through years of investigation, scientists have found that insects, although harmful in some respects, greatly protect the garden plant from some of its worst enemies. Following are some of the beneficial qualities of bugs and insects: Lady bug beetles feed on plant lice and scale insects, in all stages. Hornets feed entirely on insects. Frogs and toads feed largely on insects and slugs. Lizards live on small beetles and insects. Garden spiders feed on large flies, moths, etc. Wasps are generally beneficial because predatory on other insects, which they use as food for their larvae.

Ground beetles feed on insects that go underground to pupate. Bees are used as pollinizers and are indispensable to plant life. Tree crickets feed on plant life. Dragon flies feed on all insects.

Higher Standard Of Living

Statistics Show Average Canadian Family Is Buying More

The purchasing power of the Canadian public is demonstrated by the average increased consumption in Canadian homes of meat and poultry, indicating a higher standard of living, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The per capita consumption of beef, pork, mutton and lamb increased from 156.14 pounds in 1928, to 157.81 pounds in 1929; consumption of poultry increased from 10.12 pounds to 11.38 pounds per person, and consumption of eggs from 30.59 dozens to 30.87 dozens. The average Canadian family consumed in 1929, over nine-ninths of a beef, over two and a half hogs, and over four-fifths of a sheep or lamb, in addition to seven fowls, three-quarters of a turkey and approximately half a goose and half a duck.

Predicts Larger Farms

Machinery Will Make This Possible Says Alberta Man

Addressing the Canadian Club of Winnipeg, A. E. Ottewill, registrar of the University of Alberta, predicted much larger farms in Western Canada in the near future, making large use of mechanized labor. As an instance of present and future trends he said that C. S. Noble, of Nobleford, Alberta, had in 1929 harvested 50,000 acres of wheat, yielding 30 bushels to the acre, with a combine harvester and thrasher at the rate of one acre in 7 1/2 minutes running time.

Giant Rudder on Huge Truck

Sixty-seven tons of steel forged into a rudder to steer the 40,000-ton "Empress of Britain," Queen ship of the Canadian Pacific Atlantic fleet, was recently conveyed on the world's largest truck over a hundred miles of highway between Darlington, England, and Glasgow, Scotland, in seven days. The rudder which is 21 feet 9 inches by 20 feet 3 inches could not be taken by railroad, and was transported on a 14-wheeled vehicle carrying a telephone at the rear from which directions were called to the driver. Heralded by Automobile Association scouts, and shepherded by police, long stretches of the road had to be closed to other traffic while it passed and in certain areas telegraph poles had to be shifted temporarily. In some villages on the route there was a clearance of only 1 1/2 inches between the rudder and the walls of the houses. The rudder was delivered to the "Empress of Britain" ready to be placed in position.

A. E. Warren, vice-president of the Western region of the Canadian National Railways, reports that both farmers and business men of the prairie country are more hopeful than was the case a few months ago. He comes to this conclusion after completing his latest trip through the West. Mr. Warren remarks that, "with his usual courage, the prairie farmer is not permitting market prices and discouraging reports to interfere with his work," and says that, except in isolated cases, the acreage being seeded this year is not being reduced. "Conditions favorable to the crop exist for the moment, and the rural atmosphere may be described as quite cheerful."

As suggesting an improvement in economic conditions in Canada generally, Mr. Warren's observations tend to bear out what his "chief," Sir Henry Thornton, has just remarked in New York. Sir Henry reports that business activity in Canada is steadily increasing and that normal conditions may again prevail by August. It is also of interest, in connection with Canadian conditions, to note the decision of the Federal Reserve Board of the United States to facilitate throughout the republic the acceptance of the Canadian dollar at par.

Western farmers are doing their full part in Canada's nation-wide effort to right herself after one or two unfortunate occurrences that served to injure, though far from imperil, her economic life. These lying in partial crop failure and the stock market crash of last year, Western farmers are doing this in their own interest and in the national interest. And they are doing it in the main by "sawing wood" and maintaining their traditional determination and cheerfulness. The man who keeps popping away at his job, who keeps a stiff upper lip, and who carries a smile usually emerges successful, eventually, not immediately. These are among the attributes and virtues of the average Western farmer, and these things explain why these days he is working overtime on the land with his seedling. Far from permitting himself to be consumed with worry over last year's setback, he is concerning himself with the present and the future and working with commendable and inspiring industry, hope and faith to turn them to account. The psychology of the prairie farmer is a standing rebuke to pessimism—Regina Morning Leader-Post.

Makes Landing Safer

A simple yet effective device has been installed on a few aeroplanes in England which aids them in landing on dark nights. Beneath each wing a small searchlight is fitted with the beams of light converging. The distance at which they cross each other, forming a large patch of light, is known to the pilot, so as soon as he sees the light on any surface he knows how far he is from the ground.

EDMONTON DISTRICT W. C. T. U.
HELD AT MANNVILLE

Mrs. Hyslop, of Viking, Again President.

The eighteenth annual convention of the Edmonton District Women's Christian Temperance Union was held in Mannville, May 15th and 16th.
Officers present at the opening session were the provincial president, Mrs. L. C. McKinney, of Claresholm; honorary president, Mrs. H. M. Hilliker, Viking; president, Mrs. Margaret Hyslop, Viking; vice-president, Mrs.
Jas. McArthur, Edmonton; recording secretary, Mrs. J. D. Stephens, Ver-million; treasurer, Mrs. J. L. Hay, Ryley; Y. Secretary, Mrs. M. L. Macpherson, Holden.

Interesting reports by department superintendents were given; Mrs. H.
M. Hilliker gave report on social hygiene in which she stressed the importance of mothers' meetings. Mrs.
Johnson, medical temperance, stating the importance of educating the public of the dangers of indiscriminate use of alcohol as a medicine.

Symposium was led by Mrs. J. Mc-Arthur on the necessity for work among children and young people and how best to carry on educational work through Sunday Schools.

Mrs. J. McArthur of Edmonton led the symposium on necessity of work among young people.

Mrs. C. W. Ross, Lamont, gave a splendid report on Sunday school work, Mrs. D. Gilchrist, Edmonton, on medal contests and Mrs. A. O.
Sproule, Edmonton, on press work.
She stressed the use of clipshets at meetings.

At six o'clock a delicious banquet was served. Speakers were Rev. T.
Hart of the United Church, Rev. B.
S. Gadsden from the Anglican church who brought messages of welcome and also appreciation to the members of the convention.

Mrs. L. C. McKinney then gave a short talk.
In the evening a splendid Gold Medal Contest was held with six contestants. Master Philip Oliver of Booker T. Washington Union being the successful contestant. His subject was "Our Citizenship."

While the judges were considering their decision a short playlet entitled
"How the World was Cured of War," was given. Solos by Mrs. N. McKinney and Mrs. T. Hart accompanied by Miss Henderson, all of Mannville, were much appreciated.

Mrs. L. C. McKinney, Provincial President, gave a splendid address in which she sounded a note of warning, saying: "If you have a truth to teach, teach it now to the present-day youth, for soon it may be too late."

There never was a time, said Mrs.
McKinney, when there was so much to teach, "for scientific research, although many lines has given us truths has shown us that even the moderate use of alcohol and nicotine interfere with physical fitness, mental alertness, and self control. The liquor interests of Europe are organized with almost unlimited financial resources at their command organized to oppose any movement to curtail the traffic, in any country in the world, are spending millions to bring discredit upon prohibition in United States. Under government control in Canada there has been a great increase in social drinking. According to government figures there has been a 300 per cent increase in the use of wine."

She quoted Sir George Foster as having said, "If ever there is a backward step in the temperance movement it will be because we have neglected to educate the children."

Splendid reports on Wednesday were given by Mrs. C. W. Ross on Canadianization, and Mrs. M. L. Mc-Pherson on "Y" work. Mrs. A. O.
Sproule of Edmonton conducted the round table conference on the superintendents as a factor in W.C.T.U. work and her obligation, contained many helpful suggestions. Mrs. H.

paper on "Co-ordination" of departments. The paper on "Peace and arbitration" by Mrs. P. J. Rowe, Edmonton, was read by Mrs. H. A. Craig

VIKING

This community was shocked at the news of the sudden death of Walter Campbell at his residence in Garneau, Edmonton, on Wednesday, May 7th.
Several of our people had seen him at the Basketball game on Monday, and had talked with him on Tuesday. Of course, we knew he had been in failing health for years. He layed in bed on Wednesday, and death came quietly and peacefully in the late afternoon.

The late Mr. Walter Campbell was born at Tara, Bruce County, Ontario, on May 9th, 1878. Along with the parental household he came to Carman, Manitoba, in 1897, as was united in marriage to Miss G. E.
Goodwin in November, 1904. In the Spring of 1909 he came to Viking, where he carried on business as a General Storekeeper for more than twenty years. In July of last year he moved to Edmonton, and located his home suitably for the purpose of educating his children.

The funeral service took place on his 52nd birthday at the residence, a large number of relatives and friends being present. Rev. C. F.
McIntosh, of Knox Church, conducted the service, assisted by Rev. J. W.
Bainbridge. "The Sands of Time are Sinking" was the one hymn sung.
Mr. Bainbridge gave the address, of which the following is a brief summary:—"Many of us are here from Viking this afternoon to pay our last tribute to the body of our friend Walter Campbell, and our whole district would like to be here to personally share in the grief of those who are left. The Campbell name will ever be revered in the annals of our town. Since I heard of our friend's death, I have been trying to sum up the meaning of his life, and I would say it is best embodied in the word
"Stewardship".

From very early in his experience he caught the vision that his life had a purpose in it—a real part in the great program of life.
So he set out to make a real success of whatever his hand found to do.
Thus through persistent, practical, capable hard work he made a real success of business. At the same time, along with his help-mate, he was a true Steward of home life, as his household testifies. He was ever a leader in Church life, and for years was one of the main pillars of Viking United Church. He was equally true to his stewardship in the government of our town—for many years he was a member of the Council, and in educational life, sport, and social life he was equally active. If I were writing his epitaph it would be simply this "He hath done what he could." Although he was a man of few words, and never made a great profession, in his practical activities and all his attitudes he ranked among those of whom Jesus said

"Well done, good and faithful servant, thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord." We feel that in the passing of Walter Campbell we have lost a true husband, a noble son, a real father, a worthy brother, and a stalwart comrade in the march of life. Death has created a breach in our ranks we can never completely fill. Our one great consolation is to be found in God as revealed in Jesus, Who has proved this life to be but the gateway to a larger and more influential life. He has given us an insight into the life hereafter. We who have shared His Stewardship here are to continue to share that activity—to reign with Him for ever.
There is but one Universe, and those who have gone ahead of us to the Spiritual Realm are still playing a very definite active part in God's Kingdom. So we have no cause to worry about our departed brother.
Our chief concern is with ourselves who are left. An experience of this kind should teach us and impress upon us very definitely our bigger relationship to this life, to God, and to Immortality. Then we would be more conscious of the Spiritual Realm, and would treat our time, talents, and possessions from that point of view.
As time passes, and I say farewell to near and dear friends, those two little verses entitled "The Beyond" become more precious to me:
"It seems such a little way to me,
Across that strange country,
The Beyond.
For it has grown to be
The Home of those of whom I am So fond.
And so for me there is no sting to death.
It is but crossing with abated breath,
A little strip of sea!
To find one's loved ones waiting on the shore,
More beautiful, more precious Than before."

Interment took place in the Edmonton cemetery. A large number of beautiful floral tributes were received from relatives and friends.
Mr. Campbell leaves to mourn his

The baseball season was officially opened here on Wednesday evening of last week when the Sedgewick team played a six to six tie with the Viking team in six innings. The weather was rather cool for baseball but there were quite a few of the faithful on hand to see the game.
Sedgewick made two scores in the first inning while the locals crossed the plate once. Sedgewick kept the lead until the last half of the sixth, when with a batting rally, Viking evened up the score 6 to 6. The feature of the game was the pitching of Metcalf for Viking, and the batting of Murray for Sedgewick.
Easily of Sedgewick, also twined a good game making eight strike outs.
Metcalf made 16 men whiff the air.

A. Kastor is manager of this year's team and has made a good start with the material on hand. He expects to strengthen the team as the season advances. Jack Slavik called "em behind the plate.
The Viking team was Metcalf, pitcher; Horton short; Kortzman catcher; L. McAtthey right field; Fitzmaurice third base; J. McAtthey first base; Farnham second base; K.
Hilliker left field; G. Ross centre field.

The Sedgewick lineup: W. Murray second base; Ross left base; H. Smith third base; Eastly pitcher; Dr. Murray left field; B. Quinn centre field; S. Sparrow catcher; T. Smith short stop; Weberg right field.

NEWS ITEMS
FROM KINSELLA

The surrounding district is taking the news of the election very quietly. This district is a U. F. A. stronghold and no rumors have been circulated as to who will be ready to place their names before the Convention. This district is now represented by A. G. Andrews, M.L.A.

Ward Mathews and Marion Mathews returned to their home here by auto from California where they have spent the winter months. Ward reports scarcity of work in the Western States mainly due to overproduction. Many of the factories are only working part time. The oil fields are shut down a big part of the time, as are also the automobile plants.

While we have noted Mr. Gunn's defeat in the Edmonton mayoralty campaign, his personal friends in this district are not surprised to note that he is not appearing in provincial politics, but believe there is a future for a man of his experience and talent in dominion politics, and we have a hunch that he will contest west Edmonton on issues not yet faced by Canadians in the coming federal election. We also understand that he has been approached to run for a rural constituency.

William A. Gunn renewed some of his old acquaintances in Kinsella this week while passing through this territory.

Jim Lee, proprietor of the Kinsella hotel spent a few days in Edmonton this week.

The seeding of wheat is now about finished, and farmers are busy preparing the land for oats and barley.

The urge for mixed farming is clearly shown this year in this district which is admirably adapted to diversified farming. Wheat acreage will remain about the same, as the general acreage has increased. Conditions this year are much advanced over the same period in previous years.

There has been no apparent shortage of good seed in the district this year, most of the farmers keeping a sufficient supply from last year's crop for seeding purposes.

The early sown grain is showing up above the ground, and the moisture condition is ideal with a reserve that should hold good for at least three weeks.

There is a tone of optimism throughout the whole district and the outlook is very promising.

Frank Main was brought before magistrate A. I. Millar of Sedgewick at Kinsella on Friday last to answer to a charge of theft.

It is alleged that the accused borrowed or had given to him a separator truck by Mike Sowinski sometime last summer. After using the truck for some time he disposed of it by selling. On the witness stand Frank Main testified that the truck was out and out given to him by Mike Sowinski, while Mike Sowinski upheld that he had only loaned the truck to Frank Main.

After the hearing of several witnesses on both sides Magistrate Millar dismissed the case.

Constable Miller of Viking handled the prosecution, and Colonel Shortreed of Hardisty appeared for the accused.

Quite a little dissatisfaction is noted among the cream producers owing to the low price paid for cream. Many of the farmers are depending on that "cream cheque" to keep them going through the summer months, and it is to be hoped that the price of butterfat will soon improve.

"Well, I was bursting to tell you—seemed as if I couldn't get here quick enough. I knew Charmian was out, too, and thought maybe you'd like to know. Besides, I wanted to borrow a lump o' butter for my dinner. I almost forgot it, same as I forgot to order when the boy came round. Don't you get up, Grandma. I know your ice box most as well as I know my own."

"And good reason, too!" murmured Grandma to herself as Miss Lizzie waddled off. "Seems as if in the last thirty years there's nothing Lizzie Baker hasn't borrowed of me—unless it's my tooth brush."

She turned to the window, stared for a moment, and then exclaimed: "Why, here comes Lawyer Garfield! What on earth does he want of me?"

CHAPTER XII

Charmian was finding her old schoolmate a rather unsuitable companion this morning. Once Grandma's cherry presence was left behind, he released into silence, and was at all appearances giving his entire attention to the car. He didn't speak until they drew up before the Bascomb house with its expanse of glaring window glass.

"I'll run in," said Charmian. "I can get away from Emmy quicker than you can, and we mustn't linger." "I'm not liable to leave with Emmy Bascomb," replied Jim, stepping out before Charmian could move. "Of all the bobs—"

He left the sentence unfinished, and strode up the path, while Charmian, who agreed with him about Emmy, smiled to herself as she watched him enter the side door without waiting to knock. She was regarding the new windows disapprovingly when he came out, tossed Grandma's catkins onto the back seat, and said, as he started the engine: "Quick work that—considering Emmy's ordering a hat—by mail!"

The suspicion of a smile curved his lips, and Charmian laughed outright. "Did she ask your advice, Jim? I suppose she considered you an authority!"

He threw her a reproachful glance, but answered: "She showed me the picture, and asked whether to get black, like her new waist, or black like 'til' go with everything. Ezra's in favor of the blue, Emmy thought it might be extravagant. I voted with Ezra, not because I cared a darn which she got, but because I saw it was what she wanted."

"Tactful Jim! I didn't know you were a diplomat."

"There's a lot you don't know about me," he responded cryptically, and once more retired into silence.

Charmian, who feared to say the wrong thing, said nothing at all for a half mile; but as they climbed the hill that divided the two villages, she suggested: "Leta waste five minutes and stop under that oak tree. I love this view, Jim, and I haven't been here all summer. How small and peaceful the village looks from here. Somehow it always makes me think of 'O little town of Bethlehem.' Doesn't it ever make you feel that way, Jimmy, especially on a winter evening when the lights shine out from the houses?"

The young man, who had obeyed and stopped the car, was leaning forward on the steering wheel, his eyes searching the valley so far below.

"You're a queer kid, Charmian," he said quietly. "I guess you see things I don't see at all, and never will. It's mighty pretty up here, but I'd never think of comparing South Wickfield with Bethlehem. What put such an idea into your head?"

He was so genuinely puzzled that the girl laughed.

"Oh, you can laugh!" he burst out unexpectedly, "but it's no laughing matter to me. It makes me feel a thousand miles away from you. Grandma says you don't like the Bascombs' windows, or at least, she doesn't like 'em herself, which is the same thing."

"This is a lightning change of subject," commented Charmian.

"It's no change of subject at all," corrected Jim. "And if we're going to get back before dinner—"

He started the car so suddenly that the girl lost her balance, and for a moment her "woman's crowning glory" brushed his shoulder.

"Sorry," Jim apologized. "I didn't see that rock."

He released the arm which he had instinctively thrust out to help her, and Charmian said: "Didn't you? For a minute I thought it might be your manner of inviting me to a petting party."

"I don't pet that way," said Jim, and actually smiled.

"That's better," approved Charmian.

"What?"

"The smile. It makes you, look more human. You've a terribly grim face, Jim, when you're upset mentally. Sometimes it scares me."

"Yes, said I was mentally upset?" he demanded, scowling.

"No one had to say it. It's been written all over you for the last hour. I suspect that I'm responsible for it in a measure, and that makes me sad. Won't you smile and be friends?"

Jim smiled.

"You didn't quote correctly did you?" he inquired.

Charmian only laughed, and asked, as the car slowed down before a small, brown, shabby cottage: "Is this where you collect your interest? It doesn't look as if the interest would come easy."

Jim nodded, and reached for a brief case containing papers.

"Oh, Jim!" Charmian spoke softly so as not to be overheard by any one within. "How can the poor soul meet things like interest? She has three children, hasn't she?"

"Yes," he corrected, and stepped out into the grass-grown sidewalk.

"But—where does she get the money to pay you? She can't possibly—"

"You don't have to worry about that," broke in Jim lightly, and turned away.

A queer, sick feeling crept slowly into the girl's heart. This didn't seem like the Jimmy Bennett she had always known. Did all men change when it came to business matters? she asked herself. Did none of them feel compassion for a woman who had to struggle as this poor woman must be struggling to keep the wolf from that shabby, sagging door? Was it just part of the day's work to them—collecting what must be the pitiful savings of weeks and months? And was Jim, who seemed so kind, like all the rest? Didn't he care...

Charmian pulled herself together suddenly, realizing that Jim had been gone some time, and that unless he hurried Doctor Carter would undoubtedly find out the contents of a cold heart plot. Then the door opened, and though the woman smiled and shook hands with Jim, Charmian saw the unmistakable traces of recent tears in her red-rimmed eyes, and the girl's heart hardened a bit toward her old playmate and the hard, harsh world of business that was a part of him.

"Did she pay it?"

The question came almost against her will as they started back.

"She did," said Jim. "That's why I went there, wasn't it?"

"As you don't feel like—like Shylock?" burst from Charmian in sudden, overwhelming indignation.

Jim looked at her in amazement.

"Why in thunder should I feel like Shylock?"

His voice was cheerful, more more cheerful than it had been since they started out.

"If you don't know," Charmian replied coldly, "it would be useless for me to try to tell you." And it was as she was silent on the ride home.

CHAPTER XIII

Sorry the ride wasn't more of a success," said Jim, as he left Charmian at the side door.

He smiled rather wistfully; but it was the words, not the smile, that lingered with her as she turned on the stove dials. Something in Jim's voice had brought back the uncomfortable feeling she had experienced earlier that day, when she thought she had hurt him. And he was right.

The ride hadn't been much of a success, Charmian was, she told herself, ridiculously disturbed about it. Only the persistent pounding of Great-grandfather Davis's gold-headed cane, roused her to the fact that she hadn't run in to speak to Grandma, as was her almost invariable habit on reaching home.

"Well," exclaimed the old lady, as her granddaughter appeared in the doorway, "so its you! I didn't know but what it was a tramp, so I made all the noise I could. Where's Jim now? Gone? Dear me, I had something to tell him. You needn't rush round so, child, because the doctor won't be here to dinner. They're taking some one to the hospital at East-boro. He telephoned an hour ago. Sit down, Charmian, and let the dinner wait. There's news a-plenty."

"News? Who brought it?"

"Lizzie Babber, and like to die of apoplexy she was, from running. And after she'd gone home (by the back door after borrowing some butter), Gam Garfield brought the rest of it. He wanted to know the value of those beads we sold the deacon?"

Charmian sank limply into a chair. "Don't tell me we've got a law suit on our hands!"

"And no sooner was Lizzie gone than I looked out and saw Gam Garfield crossing the street. It gave me a start! He walked in kind of solemn, too. He likes to look that way when he has a case—sort of important. But I wasn't going to let the heart to give you the spanking you deserved for stealing fruit. That sort of—well, took the wind out of his sails, as you might say."

India's Caste System

Not Breaking Down

Is Strong As Ever Among Orthodox, Says Missionary

"For public service in India," engraved on the back of an imposing-looking medal, bearing the King's insignia, is in brief the story of Dr. Margaret MacKellar's 40 years' sojourn and medical work in the Empire of the East, and of a king's recognition of a lifetime of devotion. It is the Kaiser-i-Hind Medal, second only to the Victoria Cross, and was pinned on Dr. MacKellar by Sir Michael O'Dwyer. It is awarded regardless of creed or color, and was, in this case, presented mainly for outstanding work during famine and plague.

But there is another medal of which Dr. MacKellar, a gracious modest, little lady, with a very large heart, overflowing with India's need, is scarcely less proud. This medal is of pure gold and has four gold bars attached, one for 25 years of service, because such medals are given only to those who have served in India for a quarter of a century, and the other three denoting five years each. It was presented at the diamond jubilee of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, which met in Montreal, in 1924. The last two bars were added recently.

Dr. MacKellar is a graduate of Queen's University, and she celebrated the 40th anniversary of her work in Halifax for India on May 3, this year. Forty years ago her dedication service was held at Ingersoll.

"The caste system is not being broken down in India, and never will be, for, although caste is not recognized by the Christians, it is recognized by the orthodox," the missionary said. There are no less than 17 different cook-houses in connection with the hospital, so that women of different castes may have their food prepared separately.

In the sunlight on one side of the street walks the high-caste men, and in the shadow of this side sinks the low and outcast. There are 22,000,000 who are illiterate to some degree, but that is only 22,000,000 out of 320,000,000.

Had Excellent Idea

South Carolina Editor Expected To Profit Two Ways

Robert Guillen must have thought he could kill two birds with the one stone when he ran this ad. in his unique Fountain Inn, S.C., Tribune:

Free Rooster Saturday

Some weeks ago I bought a white Leghorn rooster. To be Garrett says he is worth $25, but the rascal crows at 3 a.m. and I don't get to bed until after 12. Being waked at 3 makes me sore. So I'm giving him away Saturday to somebody who pays a year's subscription. You may be the one to get him. If only one person pays his subscription, he gets the rooster. If two pay, we'll draw. If a dozen or more pay we'll draw.

Conventions in Martinis

Two important conventions are to be held in Wolfville, Nova Scotia, during June—that of the Canadian Seed Growers from the 19th to 21st of that month, and that of the Canadian Seed Testing Association a week later. As regards the second unit, it is the first time that the Martinis have been chosen for its convention.

Radio-telephone conversation which was held recently between New York and Sydney, Australia, by way of London, a distance of 15,000 miles, is said to be the longest on record.

Teach Blind Children Physical Training

Unable To See Instructor Boys Follow Commands Easily

Blind children, handicapped by their lack of sight, have overcome many obstacles imposed by nature, but probably one of the most important achievements to their credit within the last year is their triumph in the realm of physical training, an insight into which was given at a class conducted by H. C. Patterson, physical director of the Central Young Men's Christian Association, at Montreal.

Unable to see their instructors, the boys followed the commands with the practiced ease of their more fortunate brothers who can see, and it was explained that, as a result of the carefully conceived plan for training these children, it was possible to lead them in certain exercises, the object of which is to help them increase their physical fitness. Similar results have been obtained with deaf and dumb children.

GIVE CONFIDENCE TO YOUNG MOTHERS

A simple and safe remedy for the common ills of babyhood and childhood should be kept in every home where there is either a baby or a young child. Often it is necessary to give the little ones something to break up a cold, allay fever, correct sour stomach, and banish the irritability that accompanies the cutting of teeth.

Experienced mothers always keep Baby's Own Tablets in the home as a safeguard against the troubles that seize their little ones so suddenly and the young mother can feel reasonably safe with a box of these Tablets at hand and ready for emergencies.

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thoroughly laxative that act without gripping and they are absolutely guaranteed free from opiates or other harmful drugs. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Splendid Record

Lifeboats stationed around the coast of Britain and Ireland, manned by volunteer crews, have saved 62,187 lives in little more than a century, an average of eleven lives a week.

Worms feed upon the vitality of children and endanger their lives. A simple and effective remedy is Mother Graves' Worm Extremator.

On July 11, 1905, a special Santa Fe train, chartered by William H. Hearst, wealthy miner, completed a run from Los Angeles to Chicago, 2,265 miles, in 44 hours, 54 minutes. The run was made purely as a bit of sport.

Little Helps For This Week

"Whoever will come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow Me."—Mark viii. 34.

The cross is not so hard to bear since I have learned to say, O Lord, I walk not anywhere Unless Thou lead'st the way. —S. R. Leroy.

Both above and below, which way soever thou dost turn thee, everywhere thou shalt find the cross; and everywhere of necessity thou must have patience if thou wilt have inward peace, and enjoy an everlasting crown.—Thomas A. Kempis.

To repel one's cross is to make it heavier.—Henri Frederic Amiel.

Daughter Is Stronger Now

"My daughter Catherine is fifteen years old. She was very irregular, often sick at her stomach and had to stay in bed two or three days at a time. One of your booklets was sent to us by mail so I got her a bottle of Vegetable Compound. Catherine has been taking it regularly and she is gaining in weight and every way. I told the neighbors and four other girls are taking it with good results."—Mrs. Clarence Jenkinson, Box 14, Thorne, Ontario.

Two cars of members of the Irma Lodge I. O. O. F. visited Wainwright lodge Monday night when District Deputy Grand Master F. M. Hill made his official visit.

Very little interest appears to be taken in the coming election. As far as the Times has been able to find out only the one convention, the U.F. A. has been called.

Jarrow and Irma ball teams had a game on the Jarrow diamond, Tuesday night when the Jarrow twirlers won from the Irma boys by a score of 4 to 5.

Dr. H. L. Coursier, Dentist of Wainwright, has resumed his weekly trips to Irma and will be in his office, over the Nu-Way Store every Tuesday.

The annual branch conference of the W. M. S. are holding their sessions on the 14th, 15th and 16th of May in McDougall Church, Edmonton. Mrs. Locke and Mrs. Stouffer are attending as delegates from the Irma Auxiliary.

On account of the 24th, Victoria Day falling on a Saturday, the usual Saturday night dance in Kiefer's hall on this night will be cancelled. The next dance after this will be on May 31st, and every Saturday night following.

Irma Hotel is changing hands this week, Mrs. L. Blade, having purchased the furniture and equipment from Mrs. Geo. Hipperson who has been conducting it for the past two years. Mr. and Mrs. Hipperson have rented the new house erected by Mr. Stone on Second Ave. and have moved in it.

The recent rains followed by the use of heavy trucks and tractors have made some of the roads leading to Irma very rough. Several farmers have offered donate help if necessary to gravel some of the roads leading into town and we understand that a movement will be made shortly to have some of these improved.

The amount of $3,040.65 was received by the Calgary Power Co., for Electric Light and Energy used by the consumers of the Village of Irma during the year of 1929. The amount of $4,000.00 total revenue from consumers for a calendar year is required before a reduction of 10c off the Service charge is made, as per the Franchise. These figures were obtained from the Calgary Power on request of the Village Council.

During the progress of the fire at Jarrow, early Thursday morning a phone message came to Irma for help and for acid to charge their fire extinguishers. Mr. E. L. Eiford and B. Sather among others answered the call and on the way to Jarrow the stopper in one of the acid bottles came out spilling the acid on Mr. Sathers clothes and on the upholstery of the car. By the time the Irma boys reached Jarrow the fire had almost burned itself out and all they could do was to help protect other buildings that were in danger.

Seeding is practically completed in the Irma district. Not for many years has the soil been in better condition for a good start. To date we have had more rain than usual and with the early start the farmers have had an excellent chance to give the proper attention to the seeding operations. Wheat is coming along nicely and several fields have a nice even stand where it is beginning to cover the ground. More sweet clover has been sown than ever, nearly every farmer is putting in from a few acres to a quarter section of clover.

TENDERS FOR BASEMENT

SEALED TENDERS will be received by the Board of Trustees of Coal Springs School District No. 2360 at the office of the Secretary, Treasurer up to noon May 20th, 1930, for the construction of a basement after Plan Number 63-C-799. Plans and specifications may be obtained from Secretary-Treasurer on payment of a deposit of $5.00. Plans must be returned within 24 hours, and deposit will then be refunded. A marked cheque for five per cent of the amount of tender should be enclosed with each tender as a guarantee that same is bona fide. The lowest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

When Hills Feel Steeper and Steeper Look at Your Valves

When your motor gasps on the hill you used to take at one swift rush, it's time to look at your Valves.

The red hot hammering of the millions of explosions has battered them, pitted them, warped them, or perhaps even burned them. Power is leaking past those valves. Power that never reaches your drive shaft. No wonder the hills feel Steeper and Steeper!
